

AMS Scientific Conference 2026

Scholarship Opportunity for Visiting Researchers

We recognize that financial and travel circumstances may pose barriers to participation in the AMS Scientific Conference 2026, particularly for colleagues outside of the European Union. To support international colleagues in attending the conference, AMS Institute would like to offer five (5) scholarships, each up to €1000 (including VAT), to visiting researchers and academics.

What costs are eligible for coverage?

These scholarships will primarily be place-based and need-based, assisting in covering travel/transit, visa, and accommodation costs. Lunch and drinks during the conference are included with the ticket (though additional food and drinks outside of the conference cannot be covered with the scholarship).

Please keep in mind that if you are presenting, we do require you to purchase a 3-day conference ticket (early-bird ticket price). The ticket cost is eligible for scholarship coverage.

What are the scholarship selection criteria?

- You submit an abstract to the Call for Abstracts by November 15th and are selected to present at the conference.
- You submit the scholarship application and budget sheet by the current deadline for abstracts (15 November).
- You may be facing financial, travel, or other constraints (please explain in the application form) in being able to attend the conference in April.
- Additional consideration will be given to colleagues who live and work in a country outside of the EU and/or do not hold EU citizenship, given the likelihood of additional travel needs and document requirements.

What is the application process?

Please submit (1) an application to the Call for Abstracts and (2) the scholarship application form by the current deadline. Eligible expenses include travel/transit, visa, and accommodation costs. Note: You do not need to buy a ticket for the conference at this time. If your abstract is accepted, you can then buy a ticket for the conference at the early bird price if you decide to attend.

All items will be reviewed together by a small committee including the Scientific Director, Research Fellows, and international master's students at the AMS Institute.

We aim to inform you December 1st at the latest about whether your abstract is selected and whether you have also been selected for a scholarship. We will ask you to submit receipts for the eligible expenses if accepted, so please do keep track of these. In the case that your abstract is selected but you do not receive a scholarship, there is the option to purchase a conference ticket via the standard route if you would still like to attend.

Our hope is that this scholarship fund opens up more opportunities for our colleagues in academia to participate in the scientific conference. If you have questions along the way, please email Nina L. at reinventingthecity@ams-institute.org. We look forward to reviewing your application.

Note: If you receive this scholarship, we will not share any personally identifying information (such as name and photo) without your consent.
